AN ELECTION FOR ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY DELEGATES TO A CONVENTION TO REVISE THE STATE CONSTITUTION WILL BE HELD ON THE FIRST THURSDAY OF AUGUST, 1875. THE CONVENTION WILL MEET AT RALEIGH ON THE 8TH OF THE FOLLOWING SEPTEMBER.

Lord of Roanoke.

The history of North Carolina is full of curious and romantic incidents. Among the most curious is the circumstance of the creation of a peerage in the person of an Indian Chief. Sir Walter Raleigh, on the Island of Croatan on the 13th of August, 1587, attended the baptism of Manteo, a faithful Indian Chief, and afterwards made him a feudal Baron under the name of the Lord of Roanoke. This was the first and last Peerage ever created by English authority on American soil.

The name of Manteo is preserved in the title of the Lodge of Odd Fellows in the City of Raleigh.—Raleigh News.

We have seen the above going the rounds of the State press, and while it recalls an interesting event in our early history, it contains several inaccurate statements which it is worth while, perhaps, to correct. The baptism of Manteo is a memorable event as being the first Indian baptized by a Protestant Missionary. In passing one may remark as a subject worthy of grave thought, that the Spanish and French, who did ten times as much to Christianize and civilize the Indian as the English ever did, have never very much thriven in their American colonies, while the English, whose colonies have in the main been planted and watered in blood of the aborigines, have been the founder of nations which rival their mother, and already compete in material and intellectual enterprise with any of the countries of Europe.

But to return. Manteo was baptized on Roanoke Island on the 13th of August, 1587, five days before the birth of Virginia Dare. The account of the expedition under Jno. White states that this was done at the command of Sir Walter Raleigh, and this fact no doubt led to the supposition that he was present. But it is certain that Raleigh never came to Roanoke and at this time was a leading spirit in England, just on the verge of her greatest struggle with Spain. He must have given the command about the baptism of Manteo before White left England. The title of Lord of Roanoke and of Dasmonguepeak was then conferred on him in reward for his faithful services, but there certainly was no such thing as a peerage created and a feudal Baron was an impossibility where feudalism was unknown.

It appears not to have been uncommon for the English to give high sounding titles to their Indian allies. Certainly there is another and a more notable instance of it in North Carolina history. In the Spring of 1713 upon the treaty of peace being concluded with the Indians after the bloody massacre of the preceding fall, Tom Blount, a Tuscarora Chief, who had assisted the English against their enemies, the principal of whom were of his own tribe, received the title of King from the Proprietary government, and is known in our history as King Blount.

The Third Term.

At last for the first time Grant speaks his mind respecting a third term. He puts it in the form of a letter to Gen. Harry White, President of the recent Pennsylvania Republican Convention. His previous silence he explains as due to the dignity of his office, and he only speaks now because the subject has been considered by a nominating convention of the second State in the Union. Although somewhat Delphic in its phraseology, this letter will probably be regarded as finally withdrawing Grant's name from the list of candidates for the next Presidency. He does indeed take pains to indicate that there might be circumstances under which he would accept a nomination, if tendered, but these, he thinks, are not likely to arrive. He says, "I am not, nor have I been a candidate for re-nomination." Ah! if he had only said as much as this some time ago, what suffering might have been saved to his party.

But unfortunately the country is not yet free from Grantism. The Tribune in discussing further the letter says: "We may now safely deem the President from the list of candidates for the next Presidency."

next year. Whether he intends it or not this letter has given to timid Republicans the opportunity of declaring against him, and it has shown to all intelligent people his desire for a third term and his utter unfitness for it.

Ostracism.

We publish elsewhere an article from the Providence Journal, Senator Anthony's organ, in which a reply is made to certain strictures of the New York Tribune by an explanation of the Senator's remarks about a recent trip through the South. In the course of the article it will be observed that it asserts any person who wears the uniform of the National Government is scarcely recognized in polite southern circles of society. We rather regret the distinguished senator during his tour failed to learn what a different state of things exists in the town of Washington in this State. There is a small U. S. Revenue Cutter, Irigo by name, that touches there periodically. The crew present themselves without endorsement from any known person of responsibility, with their good looks and smooth tongues, without any recommendation at all save the uniform of U. S. naval officers and seems, forsooth, to be received with open and outstretched arms! The dead heroes that lie buried within the church yards of the place enshrouded in grey are perhaps lost to memory and the good looks and smiling lips of those that now wear the blue have taken their places in the affections of a fond and patriotic people. This may be an isolated case, and we hope it is, still let the Senator change his views and the Leopard his spots.

The success of the Democratic Party in the future will not depend upon stamp speaking, but upon township organization.—Senator Thurman.

North Carolina is now on the eve of one of the most important elections that has or ever will occur within her borders. There is nothing truer for her conservative masses to realize than the sentiment above quoted from the lips of a patriarch of democracy. The election of delegates to the convention is close at hand. It is time to go to work. We must not depend solely upon the canvass to elect representative men, but should see that every white man in each township votes. Let every one who feels an interest in the vital issues at stake look upon it as his sacred duty to arouse his neighbor to a kindred feeling. The radical party, though quiet, is marshalling its forces. It is a foe to be dreaded. Unscrupulous and unprincipled there is no chicanery it will decline to resort to. Mark it well that, this party will do its utmost to retrieve its fallen fortunes in the approaching election. It has party at stake, we have every thing. Then let every true lover of civil liberty—every white man—remember that the success of the democratic party in the election for delegates to the convention will depend not upon stamp speaking but upon township organization. People of Martin, Beaufort, Pitt and Edgecombe, remember this!

A Republic a Failure.

We have often held that the course of the Radical party has been to subvert the fundamental principles of Republicanism. The Democratic journals every where in this country are of the same opinion. Now we have the opinion of a highly respectable English sheet that has watched carefully American politics since the close of the war and which has come to the conclusion, and justly so, that a republic since the days of Radicalism has proven a failure.—This is the language used by the London Standard.

Thinking Americans are compelled to acknowledge that waste, corruption and inefficiency prevail in every branch of administration, and ignorance and personal worthlessness predominate in legislation. They begin to admit that the grand experiment begun a century ago is a failure. Remedies must be devised quickly if revolution and disaster are to be averted. It is conceded on all sides that universal suffrage, which, however, it is now impossible to abolish, is the root of the evil.

Yes, universal suffrage is the root of the evil. That has been the great point with the Radical party since it came into existence. "If revolution and disaster are to be averted, remedies must be devised quickly" and that remedy is the overthrow and eternal domination of the radical party. In 1876 the momentous question will be decided whether the American people are a free people or whether they have been cheated out of their blood-bought liberties by Grantism.

Washington letter to Boston Post: "John Delano is on the war-path against Brietow. He says he means to fight the devil with fire. Don't you do it, John, says the Courier Journal. The devil has more fire than you have. Go for him with something of which you have an equal supply. Fight him as he fights you."

But unfortunately the country is not yet free from Grantism. The Tribune in discussing further the letter says: "We may now safely deem the President from the list of candidates for the next Presidency."

The Currency Question.
"More money" is evidently going to be the leading battle-cry of the Ohio democracy this fall. The leading organ of the party in the State, the Cincinnati Enquirer, thus exhorts the faithful: "Let the people turn out at primary meetings. Let them nominate no candidates for legislative or other offices who are not for making money more plentiful, and thereby reducing the rates of interest. When that is accomplished the wheels of industry will be set in motion, business will revive, the unemployed will obtain employment, the manufacturer and the merchant can sell their goods, the farmer will obtain good prices for his produce, and there will be a revival of that which we had before the terrible contraction of money commenced in 1865 from $2,200,000,000 to less than 700,000,000. Those who oppose this increase of the money of the people are the enemies of the people, and should be so treated, no matter in what party they belong, when they present themselves for public favor."

This may be very good doctrine in Ohio, and perhaps in the north-west, but we hope no democrat will be indiscreet and factious enough to lug that question of currency into the next Presidential election for, as the New York Tribune pointedly says, that sort of doctrine would "produce a tidal wave in that part of the country" which would defeat the democratic party.

Business in New York.

The New York Tribune of Saturday says a revival of trade in that city is manifest. With the warmth of the spring it declares, "there has come a rapid development of retail business, and leading houses find their sales much exceeding those of May of last year. In fact the general testimony is that the spring trade may put a quietus on the cry of hard times."

This news is highly gratifying. We hope the general distress will soon come to an end every where. Evert's speech in defense of Beecher has consumed the entire week. The trial, however, will ere long terminate, but the verdict of the jury will have little effect upon public opinion. Every individual acquainted with the circumstances believes Beecher either guilty or innocent, at any rate, he has an opinion and nothing will change it. We have believed him innocent from the beginning, but it has required quite an amount of energy to back up that belief.

Isn't it about time for the loyal editor to stop turning pale every time Mr. Jefferson Davis happens to receive a little public attention in the South? Is it necessary for the safety of the Union to pronounce the applause which greets the speeches of the ex-President of the Confederacy the "old rebel yell"? To the unpatriotic eye Mr. Davis appears a very harmless sort of a person.—Tribune.

We mentioned in Saturday's paper that on that day an attorney would argue that the usury law of the last Legislature is unconstitutional as far as it was applicable to national banks. Col. T. C. Jones introduced the proposition, but made no elaborate argument on the subject. Judge Schenck reserved his decision in the case, promising to render it this week.—Charlotte Observer.

As there has been some discussion about the birth place of Gov. Wm. Allen, of Ohio, the editor of the Observer addressed him a letter on the subject. In reply the Governor states that he was born in Edenton, N. C. in 1806, and is consequently sixty nine years of age. The Hon. S. S. Cox, of New York, was mistaken in representing him as a native of Mecklenburg county.

We thought that George Francis Train had abjured politics, but alas it is not so. A paper called the People's Paper, has appeared out West, which nominates this blatherer for President in 1876. Let the fool-killer start immediately to find that crazy editor.

We would like to remind farmers' sons who wish to leave home for other pursuits that all wealth rests on enlightened agriculture, and furthermore, all civilization on the intellectual and moral culture of the people at large. Stay on the farm by all means.

Sherman's book has called down upon his precious head any amount of wrath from the "faithful."

The centennial of Banker Hill battle will be observed on the 17th of June.

"Everybody's Vegetable Cathartic Pills." BOSTON, VA., Dec. 1st, 1873. Gentlemen.—I have been a great sufferer for several years with Liver Complaint and general debility, and at times troubled with immense pain in the regions of my liver. I have had the attendance of the best medical men to be had here, but without any permanent relief. I was last advised to try "Everybody's" Pills, and I feel no hesitation in saying that one bottle did me more good than all the other Medicine I had taken before. I now feel entirely relieved, the pain having left me. I have a good appetite, and what I eat agrees with me. I have no hesitation in saying that I owe my good health, and perhaps my life, to the use of "Everybody's" Pills. Very respectfully,
E. A. DAVIS.
